

Hello, My name is Joan Norris and I have been an Infant Room teacher for three years now.

Before getting into childcare I was in Office Administration for over 20 years, so this is definitely a change of career for me. I have been married for many years to the same great guy and together we have successfully raised 3 kids to be loving, independent members of society. We are proud of all of them. I love working with the babies, watching and helping them grow both physically and socially. I treat each and every one of them as my own. I look forward to working with you and your child and giving you peace of mind that they are well cared for.
