READ ACROSS AMERICA

Read Across America is the nation's largest celebration of reading. It was launched in 1998 by the National Education Association (NEA) and guided by a committee of educators. Across the nation, teachers, teenagers, librarians, politicians, actors, athletes, parents, grandparents, and others develop activities to bring reading excitement to children of all ages.

Reading is a powerful, fulfilling, and rewarding activity. Not only does a book act as a comfort and a friend, it also acts as a teacher and can teach children all about themselves, their world, and the cultures within it. Reading has numerous benefits and is something all parents and teachers should encourage children to do.

During this week and all year long, we invite you to:

1. Read books with your children
2. Find books with stories that children can relate to and they can link with real life experiences.
3. When people make the time to read with children, children get the message that reading is important.
4. After you have finished reading to your child, consider trying to keep it going and ask questions about what you just read.

We are very excited for this Spring Break! We have put a lot of effort into planning to ensure our children are going to love it! They will have two amazing field trips and lots of great activities here!

It is great for children to have a break from school in the middle of the year and we are here to ensure unlimited fun! Spring Break is also a sneak peek for our summer camp program. This will give you the opportunity to experience how the schedule and activities are going to work during the summer months!
